GREETINGS

The year 1930 has been to me a year of thanksgiving in many ways. Even though business has been curtailed generally somewhat in the latter part of the year, I am thankful to have been permitted to enjoy good health with my family on our 50th anniversary, November 6th.

Nothing would please me more on this occasion than to grasp the hand of every one of my customers and other friends and thank them for their liberal patronage and kindly feeling expressed in many other ways.

There have been many changes in the appearance of the dahlia since I first began growing them forty years ago. Size was the craze until it reached impracticable proportions for decorative purposes.

The medium size flowers are more in demand now for decorations. Especially has the modern single dahlia won the heart of the housewife as well as the public decorator. The tiny pompon in its array of bright colors has come forward hand in hand with the singles, as the most appropriate flowers of the whole dahlia family, to be used in beautifying the home.

About fifteen years ago to satisfy my ambition for a better green corn, I succeeded in originating the three superior varieties described elsewhere in this book, and they have more than fulfilled my anticipation.

I dispose of this corn easily, freshly picked at my newly established roadside stand, in the dahlia field. Try and visit my dahlia garden located on the road to and near Watch Hill in Westerly—the largest and most attractive ocean front summer resort in southern Rhode Island.

GEORGE L. STILLMAN, The Original Dahlia Specialist WESTERLY, R. I. Originator of World Known Dahlias

On all retail orders for roots, received prior to February 1, 1931, accompanied by cash in full, you may select an amount of roots equal in price to 25% of your order, free in addition to the order. This does not apply to special collections or dahlia seed and is not a cash discount to be deducted from the order, simply that many roots as a premium.

Send in your order now, to make sure of getting what you want and also secure this extra premium.

LIFE'S SUPREME TEST

It is easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows like a song;
But the man worth while is the man who can smile

When everything goes wrong. For the test of the heart is trouble, And it always comes with years;

And the smile that is worth the praises of earth

Is the smile that shines through tears.

PLEASE NOTICE

For those who have not been able to visit my field and are not familiar with the new varieties, I make a specialty of making up special collections, all labeled. You need only state the number of roots you can use and the total amount you wish to spend—five, ten, fifteen, twenty. or twenty-five dollars or more. I will then make the selection and submit the list for your approval, and guarantee satisfaction. See pages 24 and 23 for other special collections.

SIZE OF BLOOMS

Sizes given in this catalog are as they grow with me. If you disbud them, you can grow them as large as anyone.

ABOUT DISBUDDING

Why disbud your dahlias to one flower when you grow them for home decoration. There is a happy medium that counts. Just disbud enough to produce all perfect, medium-size flowers, which are most desirable for the cut flower trade or home decoration.

BIG BLOSSOMS

Why try to grow the big top-heavy flowers, the backs of which begin to fade before the flower is perfect? Medium size flowers are best for cut flowers and last much longer in the house.

SINGLE DAHLIAS

FIRST PRIZE AT THE DAHLIA SHOW

The demand for single dahlias for table and house decoration has had such a marked increase of late that last year I gave all my seedling garden over to new single dahlias.

From several hundred seedling plants, I selected 25 plants for propagation this year. With one or two exceptions, these plants have even exceeded my expectations.

They are a very unusual collection of the lovliest shades and colors concervable, and are just the right size for decorative purposes. Long stiff stems, holding the delicate flowers erect. In my own home and office they have proven to be good keepers and most unusually attractive.

At the Dahlia Show in Madison Square

Garden, Sept. 16, 17 and 18, I was awarded 1st prize for Collection of Singles. Their equal for beauty or formation and color cannot be found in this country. In mixtures or shown in separate kinds, they are simply superb.

The roots are priced separately, and seeds from the entire collection are mixed together. Imagine what a wonderful array of beauty a few roots and a package of seed from this collection of new singles will mean for your garden. The true conception of the beauty of the shades of these new specimens can be gained only by seeing them.

I am offering a limited number of roots and a small quantity of seed from this collection of new singles at the very reasonable prices following:

Seed-$1.00 per package, postpaid.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING

Do not plant your dahlias in the shade. Stunted plants, thick and bushy on top, Stunted plants, thick and bushy on top, with no blossoms, are the result of dry weather, or too heavy soil.

Do not wait for roots to sprout before planting. There is nothing like mother earth to sprout them. Plant them where you want them to grow. The more flowers you cut the better dahlias bloom.

Dahlias do well with me; they will with you, if you follow my instructions carefully, and above all, note what is said on another page in regard to watering.

I guarantee every root I send out, if a root fails to come, return at once.

Throughout the catalog, three roots of one name, may be had for the price of two, for example: three Gloria de Lyon for 50c.

SPECIAL OFFERS OF DAHLIA ROOTS

READ CAREFULLY

All my customers who received my 1930 catalog and are receiving the 1931 will readily see that I have disposed of the majority of the older varieties of dahlias and a great many of the cheaper new varieties, retaining my newer varieties and very best sellers. I have cut prices heavily of most of those remaining. In making up these collections this year, they are made up from my own stock as usual, roots that I grew in my own field.

It is therefor evident that these special collections this year, will be even more attractive than heretofore.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the names, colors, and characteristics of the Dahlia. and wish to have the selection made for them. I make the following 4 collections at a special low price to even up stock. They consist of an assortment of classes and colors and the entire selection must be left to me.

No. 1 COLLECTION, contains six named varieties carefully seselected, no two alike, and each labeled. This collection contains at least $3.00 worth of bulbs. Price, postpaid, anywhere in the U.S.A	$1.25
No. 2 COLLECTION, contains six named varieties carefully selected, no two alike and each labeled. This collection contains at least $4.00 worth of roots. Price, postpaid, anywhere in the
U. S. A	2.25
No. 3 COLLECTION, contains ten named varieties carefully selected, no two alike and each labeled. This collection contains at least $8.50 worth of roots. Postpaid anywhere in the U. S. A.	5.25
No. 4 COLLECTION, contains 20 roots without labels, that have become mixed in digging and handling. Frequently a whole row of high-priced varieties has to be thrown into this collection. The supply for this collection is limited. The quality of roots	0.20
that get into this collection makes it positively necessary to make the price, postpaid, anywhere in the U.S.A	2.25

DIRECTIONS FOR PLANTING DAHLIA SEED

In the latitude of New York City seed should be sown about March 15th to April 1st. Flats or boxes about 3 or 4 inches deep are best. Cover the seed about ½ inch deep and keep in a warm place. Soak the ground very wet as soon as seed is planted, and keep it moist until the plants are all above the ground. Then they can be moved to a cooler place. They should be kept in the sun to avoid growing too slender. Transplant in the open when weather is free from frost, about 15 inches apart. Discard any undesirable ones as soon as they bloom, thus giving the others more space.

IMPORTANT—It is very important that you understand that every plant you get from seed is an entirely new variety and may be even better than the flower it is taken from. So please do not call any dahlia obtained from seed by any name that is already given to any dahlia as it has no connection with any other.

I do not save seed from poor, insignificant flowers. The wonderful success my customers have with my seed is ample proof that it is far superior to any on the market.

DAHLIA STAKES

As many of my customers make inquiries of me as to where they can obtain strong Dahlia stakes, I have arranged to furnish a good, strong, Oak Stake, 1½ inches square, and 6 feet long, in the rough, just as they come from the mill, at 12c. each, F. O. B. Westerly. These stakes will last almost a life time if kept under cover when not in use. Oak is getting scarce. Order your stakes early, for my next lot will cost more money. This price good while they last. Price for new lot on application.

I Now Have It

After several years of experimenting, I have succeeded in developing three varieties of sweet corn which are unequaled for table use.

They are all great producers of very large ears of the finest quality, keeping sweet, tender and juicy for a long period.

My ambition was to produce a better sweet corn with larger ears and of superior quality to the kinds in common use. This I succeeded in doing in the three following varieties:

THE EXTRA EARLY GIANT is a 12 row corn, ears of good length and of large diameter, possessing the finest table and market qualities. It has 12 rows of kernels, thus producing half as much more corn to the ear, than the early 8 row corns. It brings a much higher price in the market each year in my own town. It having 12 rows makes an ear-of much larger diameter which insures a quick sale. Height about 3 ft. See illustration on page 25.

Selected Seed 75c per pint; 50c per half-pint.

THE SWEET ORANGE sweet corn is about a week later than the Early Giant. It has 12 and frequently 14 rows of kernels. It somewhat resembles the Bantam corn but ears are twice as large, making it a very profitable market corn and it is a favorite table corn as well. It sells in the market here for nearly double the price of the Bantam corn and it costs no more to grow it Height about 5 ft. See illustration on page 25.

Selected Seed 75c per pint; 50c per half-pint.

THE MT. SHASTA SWEET CORN is the largest and sweetest corn in existence. I grew ears of this corn the past season 15 inches long, weighing 2¼ lbs. Although it is a very large corn it possesses an unusual pleasing sweet and delicious flavor of its own. The Mt. Shasta Corn sells itself.

It sold all through the past season in my field, where it grew, as fast as it matured, at 60 cents per dozen. I can safely state that no other sweet corn has in so short a time met with so great and popular demand as has the Mt. Shasta.

See illustration on page 25.

The past season, cars have driven to my fields from Providence, New London, East Lyme, Narragansett Pier, Wakefield and all the towns bordering on Westerly, especially to get the Mt. Shasta corn.

Selected Seed 75c per pint; 50c per half-pint.

WHAT CUSTOMERS SAY

"That Mt. Shasta corn is the sweetest and best corn we ever saw."

"You can't buy such corn as that where we live at any price, and we pay 10 cents an ear for corn and very much inferior to the Mt. Shasta."

"I want two dozen of that corn I hear so much about."

Hundreds of similar favorable comments are made by customers all through the season. Everyone is pleased and they come again.

Plant a sweet corn that will top the market if you are a market gardener.

If for your own use, one that will be an ornament to your table.

DIRECTIONS FOR PLANTING CORN

Make one planting of EARLY GIANT, three of SWEET ORANGE, and three of MT. SHASTA and you will have a continual supply of the finest green corn you ever ate

Plant the EXTRA EARLY GIANT in rows three feet apart and hills two feet apart in the rows. Leave only three stalks in each hill. Fertilize liberally according to quality of soil, with poultry manure, but do not allow it to be placed less than 5 inches from the seed.

Plant the SWEET ORANGE in rows three feet apart and hills three feet apart in the row. Three stalks to each hill. Fertilize liberally when planting according to quality of the soil with poultry manure, but do not allow it to be placed less than 5 inches from the seed.

Plant the MT. SHASTA in rows four feet apart and hills 3½ feet apart in the row. Allow only three stalks to a hill and if soil is weak only two stalks. Fertilize liberally when planting with poultry manure, placed not less than six inches from the seed.

Caution: Do not mix strong fertilizer with the soil when planting any kind of seed. It is liable to injure the seed. Allow the seed to sprout in the plain soil. It will find the fertilizer very soon.

Throughout the catalog, three roots of one name, may be had for the price of two, for example: three Gloria de Lyon for 50c.

Disbudding.

Wherever you see my dahlias, either in my fields or on my exhibition tables, you see them as they grow naturally. The only right way to exhibit dahlias. There can be no deception in size. I do no disbudding whatever.

Please Notice

Every dahlia offered in this catalog is described to the best of my ability as they are while growing in my fields without any disbudding; and every statement as to size is positively correct as they grow for me with no extra care. If disbudding with proper care is resorted to they will exceed sizes stated. If a purchaser does not grow them to sizes stated the fault is not mine. It may be the weather, the kind of soil, the lack of water, and a dozen other things. One year's trial is not sufficient to try out a new variety. Experiments in your own garden are the best education.

Prices: Orders received prior to Jan. 1st for shipment the following season will be subject to prices quoted in the new catalogue even though they have been reduced from the last issue.

All shipments to Canada after being delivered to the Express Company or the U.S. mail are at purchaser's risk as to delays or loss.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

Guarantee.—I guarantee every root I send out to be true to name and to have a sprout or at least one live eye that will sprout, but I am not responsible for the growth in another person's hands. In case a root fails to sprout, notify me as soon as possible.

First of All.—Send me your order as soon as you receive my catalogue, as the demand for some varieties often exceeds the supply, and those who order early are less liable to disappointment than if they waited till the rush at the time of planting. ORDER roots sent early to avoid disappointment.

If you do not want to spare all of the money to send with the order, send the order along, together with one-quarter of the amount as a guarantee of good faith, and the balance can be remitted when you receive notice that your order is ready to ship.

Customers who are not personally known to me will be notified when to remit the amount of their bill.

Roots are shipped as soon after April 1st as convenient, unless otherwise specified.

When sending orders use the Order Blank furnished with this catalogue. Any number of additional Order Blanks may be had upon application. When filling out the Order Blanks, be sure to fill out the Second Choice columns as well as the First Choice.

It is well to mention the varieties that you are willing to have substituted in case some of those selected are all sold out. Or, if requested, I will select such varieties as will substitute to best advantage. Otherwise, money sent for such roots will be returned to the sender.

Size of Roots.—Some varieties of Dahlias always produce very small roots, while other varieties make large ones. So do not consider small roots as worthless, for they are equally as good as large ones.

Roots to be replaced after July 1st will be booked for shipment the next season only, and in all cases the roots to be replaced must be returned.

The best way to send money is by registered letter, money order or express order.

Do not hesitate to send small orders. An order for one root will be as carcfully filled as an order for one thousand.

Terms.—Cash invariably in advance, or C. O. D. On all retail orders fully paid for in advance I will prepay carriage to any part of the United States.

ATTENTION.—Orders taken in the Fall not fully paid for will be sent C. O. D., unless previous arrangement has been made.

Do not delay ordering until the time to plant, as many varieties may be sold out before that time. ORDER EARLY.

If roots are received before it is convenient to plant them, they should be covered with moist earth until planted.

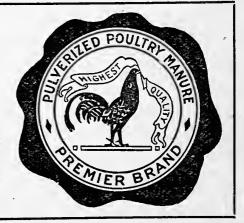

I use the utmost care to prevent errors in labeling and packing, but if an error does occur, kindly notify me, that it may be rectified immediately.

Please bear in mind that orders are booked and assembled in rotation as received, and are packed to be shipped at the time your order specifies.

FERTILIZER FOR DAHLIAS

I am prepared to furnish both the Pulverized Sheep and Poultry Manure. They are both thoroughly pulverized and kiln dried, and all germs of weeds or grass destroyed. It is perfectly dry and convenient to handle. It is put up in 50 lb. and 100 lb. bags, and can be readily shipped by express or freight. Both of these fertilizers are especially adapted to dahlia growing and for all kinds of garden truck generally. For corn I especially recommend the poultry. Price of poultry in 100-lb. bags, $4.00; 50-lb. bags, $2.25. Sheep in 100-lb. bags, $3.00; 50-lb. bags, $1.75. F. O. B. Westerly.

Throughout the catalog, three roots of one name, may be had for the price of two, for example: three Gloria de Lyon for 50c.

POINTERS ON GROWING DAHLIAS

There are always some people who do not succeed in growing Dahlias with their first season's experience, and are naturally very much disappointed. To those I wish to say that it is not due to a fault of mine or of the roots, but is wholly due to your method of cultivation, kind of soil, or weather conditions. A glance through the hundreds of letters I receive from pleased, enthusiastic people who purchase their stock from me is positive proof that my stock is without fault. Exercise a little patience and a whole lot of good common sense and you will grow as nice Dahlias as anyone.

The Right Kind of Soil.—The kind of soil for Dahlias is a light loam or a stony knoll or side hill.

It is very essential that the soil has good drainage. A rich soil is all right if it has good drainage. Heavy, solid ground will produce an abundance of foliage and few and inferior blossoms.

It should be borne in mind that the poorer the soil, the more fertilizer it requires, and the lighter the soil, the more water it needs. See directions for watering elsewhere. It is a very unwise thing to advise no fertilizer in growing Dahlias, especially in the Eastern states. As a rule nothing will grow without sufficient nourishment. Ileavy soil is usually quite rich and when lightened as directed elsewhere, will not need as much fertilizing as weak, light soil.

Heavy Soil.—If your soil is heavy with a clay sub-soil, it should be lightened with coal ashes or sand. If coal ashes are used, the coarser they are the better, the main object being to make the soil lighter, more porous, and to give it a good drainage. I have seen Dahlias grown to perfection on a spot where the soil was nearly clear coal ashes.

In applying coal ashes they should be plowed, or spaded in, broad cast, 10 to 18 inches deep, and not dumped in one spot where the Dahlia is planted. One part coal ashes, or sand, and one part soil will not lighten it any too much. This will give a better drainage and allow the sun to act on the soil to a greater depth.

Ashes from either hard or soft coal will do but on very heavy soil those from soft coal are preferable, being much coarser. Both kinds mixed together are also desirable.

Planting.—The ground should be plowed or spaded to a depth of 8 to 10 inches. Make the drill to receive the root, 12 to 16 inches long and 6 inches deep, and about 6 inches wide. Lay the root down flat in the drill and then apply the fertilizer on both sides of the root, 4 to 6 inches from the root. If pulverized Sheep Manure is used, about one pint to one quart is usually sufficient to each root according to the strength of the soil. If poultry manure is used one pint to each plant is sufficient.

It is very desirable to plow in a quantity of stable manure broadcast. Always stick the stake in the ground before covering the root and thus avoid piercing any part of the root.

Watering.—Watering is one of the most essential things in producing perfect blooms on your Dahlias. 90 per cent. of the failures in growing Dahlias is due to lack of water when the hot days of Summer come. Did you ever notice that the stalk of the Dahlia is about all water except the outside shell, and that where sufficient water is supplied the hole in the center of the main stalk is nearly full of water?

The Dahlia, as soon as it begins to bloom, will absorb the moisture from the soil for a distance of two or three feet. For example: Dig down deeply amid the roots of the Dahlia and then again about 4 or 5 feet from the plant and observe the difference. The dry hot days come earlier some years than others, but usually when the buds begin to open it is time to begin watering.

The best method of doing this is to make a basin-shaped mound of earth around the plant, about 2 feet in diameter, and into this basin turn three or four water pails full of water as often as every three or four days. Fertilizer is used to obtain size, water to make richness of color and perfection. Try it.

Do not hesitate about ordering Dahlia Roots on account of distance for they go safely by mail or express to any part of the world.

A TALK FOR THE BEGINNER

Do not expect to grow as large flowers as an expert the first year that you try Dahlias, for with any flower you need some experience as well as instruction in order to have great success.

One of my customers said that he had no luck with Dahlias until he read my catalogue. There he found the very information that he needed, viz.: How to lighten the soil and render it porous.

If you have a heavy growth of plants and no flowers, it is an indication of too heavy soil, or the same result will be encountered on some dry, rich land. In the latter case water is what is needed and in great abundance, say three or four pails of water three times a week to each plant, with some liquid fertilizer once a week.

Notice that after a heavy rainfall Dahlias take on a new life and the flowers are fuller in the center and more brilliant in color.

All the Dahlias described in this catalogue as to color and shape are described to the best of my ability, but I do not guarantee them to fully meet the ideas of all purchasers in regard to color shadings.

The best method of planting in the field is to make the distance between every other row 3 and 5 feet, respectively, thus affording a passageway on one side of each row after the plant will become large and fill the 3-foot space. 2½ to 3 feet apart in the row according to the nature of the plant is about the right distance when 3- and 5-foot spaces are used. Do not plant near trees or shrubs, as tree roots will take the strength of the soil from the Dahlia. In the open by themselves is the best place. Avoid the south side of a large building where the sun is extremely hot without a good circulation of air, for the flowers will burn on the back before fully open.

For early flowering they may be planted any time after May 1st or as soon as all danger from frost is passed.

Some people have an idea that the larger the root the better the plant it will make, but this is not the case. A small root is just as good as, and in many cases better than, a large one.

The Clumps should be divided about the time that you are to plant in the Spring. At this time you can readily see where the sprouts are and with the use of a knife the head of the clump can be split through between the sprouts, or eyes, taking whatever bulb, or roots, would come off with one sprout. One sprout is always better than more. If the sprouts are over 2 inches long when you plant the roots it is better to cut them off a half-inch from the root and a new sprout will come and make a better one than the slender one that grew in the cellar.

Care of the Plants.—Keep the ground well cultivated and free from weeds. A frequent stirring of the surface is very beneficial. An application of some standard fertilizer raked into the surface of the soil around the plants two or three times during the season will be very helpful to the development of the flowers.

Never leave more than one or two stalks in a hill. You will have better plants and larger flowers if you will allow only one sprout to grow.

When the buds begin to open a dressing of liquid fertilizer around the plants, several times in a season, will also be beneficial.

Stakes may be used to advantage to prevent plants from breaking down.

Disbudding.—The proper way to disbud the plants is as follows: If the first, or crown bud, appears to be weak or defective, cut it off.

Then when flowers appear on branches, cut them for decorative purposes, below one or two joints, thus removing with the flower whatever buds and foliage may be there. The flowers and foliage cut thus give a better effect for whatever purpose they are to be used. This method is a good invigorator for the plant and at the same time does all the disbudding required on the majority of Dahlias.

Remember, if roots are received before you are ready to plant them, cover them with moist earth to keep them from drying up.

Care of the Roots in Winter.—After the frost has killed the foliage, lift the clumps with a spade fork and allow them to dry in the sun about half a day. They should then be stored in a place free from frost. If an old style cellar without cement bottom or heat, they need not be covered, but if cemented and heated by furnace, they should be covered with papers and cloth to keep the air from them and thus prevent too much shriveling.
